

Yolanda Wisner [Photo credit: Taylor Baldwin]

THE INTERDISCIPLINARY HUMANITIES RESEARCH CENTER
presents

“If I Had Known”: Education, Performance, Activism

Public Humanities Symposium

NOVEMBER 6, 2020

11:00AM – 3:00PM

Free and open to the public

Registration Required

“If I Had Known” is a virtual symposium dedicated to the legacy of teacher, writer, poet, and activist, Alice Dunbar-Nelson (1875-1935). A longtime Wilmington resident, active in the Mid-Atlantic, Dunbar-Nelson spent much of her adult life educating the youth and fighting for social justice and women’s rights. This symposium looks at how education and performance traverse paths of civic activism with guest speakers and artists who celebrate the spirit of her life’s work. Guest speakers and performers feature Yolanda Wisner, Constance Strickland, Eve Dunbar, Sandra A. Zagarell, and a keynote presentation by Nazera Sadiq Wright.

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE
ARTS & SCIENCES

Co-sponsored by the University of Delaware Library, Museums & Press